Lyndon Way.
If you go loitering Lyndon way
By Lynnhope's ferry reaches Where thrushes through the living day
Make music in the beeches, You'll see a cot, O howery spot!
That in a dip reposes,
And there, amid a golden-plot,
A maid among her roses!

If you go loitering Lyndon way,
And, sooth, the path is luring!
Your heart, sir, to your dire dismay,
Will stand in need of curing;
And why? you ask. An easy task
The answer one bestows is:
She wears love's very mood and mask—
That maid among her roses.

If you go loitering Lyndon way,
And now I know you'll go, sir!
Howe'er you plead, howe'er you pray,
I'll only be a "no," sir;
Yet I'll confess, though in distress, I've found such of her "noes" is Far sweeter than another's "yes"—
That maid among her roses!

Annual Gala Party.

Nearly all of the members of a houseparty at "Rockland," the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Price, of Boutetout, left this afternoon, after a delightful week spent in riding, driving, boating and dancing.

The station at Gala presented a festive appearance one afternoon, when the entire party came to the train on a hay-ride to meet some of the guests.

Mrs. Robert Price, assisted by her daughters, Misses India and Eliza, entertained the party at a watermelon feast on Thursday afternoon.

One of the principal events was a progressive euchre party. Miss Franklin gave the first prize, and Miss Godwin, the consolation.

Besides the hostesses, Misses Nellie, Marguerite, Louise, and Kathleen Price,
the house guests were:
Misses Arline and Winnie Eugart, of Personal Mention.

Miss Patie V. Isaacs has returned to Richmond after a very successful ten days' engagement at the Harrisonburg Chautauque, where she has been delig-tful large audiences with her rich contralto voice. The sympathetic quality and wonderful sustaining power of Miss Isaacs' voice was highly commented upon by those who heard her sing.

Miss Kate Elsmore Puller has for the past ten days been attracting large audiences at the Harrisonburg Chautauque with her varied styles of elocution, charming personality and grace as an entertainer. She is now at Mountain

Miss Lorna Hubbard, of Washington, D. C., has been the recipient of much attention at Buckingham Courthouse, Va.

The Winchester Star of August 18th, in commenting upon the fall of a landmark in Frederick county says:

"The Red House," an old log structure for close upon a century and a quarter a landmark in this neighborhood—where the public men and belles and beaux of the great province named for the Virgin Queen were wont to gather in colonial times—suddenly fell in a heap of ruins on Tuesday last, worn out with age.

The house was built in 1782, and was of two stories. The house was built by Jacob Kline, and the ends of the logs were dovetailed so that scarcely a nail could be found in the ruins.

The house was known far and wide for its hospitality, and men whose names are linked with the early history of this great republic—the statesmen of an infant nation and the soldiers of the Continental army—have stayed under its roof.

Here many a gay house-party made the old rafters ring with their merriment, and here the gay youth of the New World, in satins and velvet, jeweled swords clinking at their sides, wooed and won the lovely maidens of the long ago.

were to have accompanied the party, were prevented on account of a trolley accident, happening June 20th, and their having not yet fully recovered.

Misses Boulah and Hazel Myer are on a visit to New York and Asbury Park.

At a german given last Wednesday night by the gentlemen of the Rockbridge Alum Springs, Miss Bessie Hucker attended, with Mr. James Branch Cubell.

Allow us, through the columns of this paper, to express our deep and grateful appreciation to our friends for kindnesses tendered us during the last week of our mother's illness, and the many expressions of sympathy offered, whilst our hearts are bowed down with sorrow and grief.
